

In-House Training

Introduction

REDmoney are the market leaders in the provision of in-house and bespoke courses for the Islamic finance industry. In-house training takes place at your premises, minimizing the time your staff have to spend away from their desks. With group sizes up to 25 delegates, in-house represents a highly cost-effective way of utilizing your training budget. In short, you decide on location, dates, duration, course level, instructor and content.

How We Work

Before a program is delivered, our course director will consult closely with you to discuss course methodology, course content and level to ensure what is ultimately delivered is exactly tailored to your needs and those of your colleagues.

Our course materials are continuously updated and renewed, and include a significant number of case studies based on real life transactions. Assessment and supplementary on-line study resources can also be offered. Our courses are delivered in an interactive fashion through 'learning by doing', ensuring delegates receive plenty of 'face-time' with the course director. Interactive group exercises and discussions play a vital role.

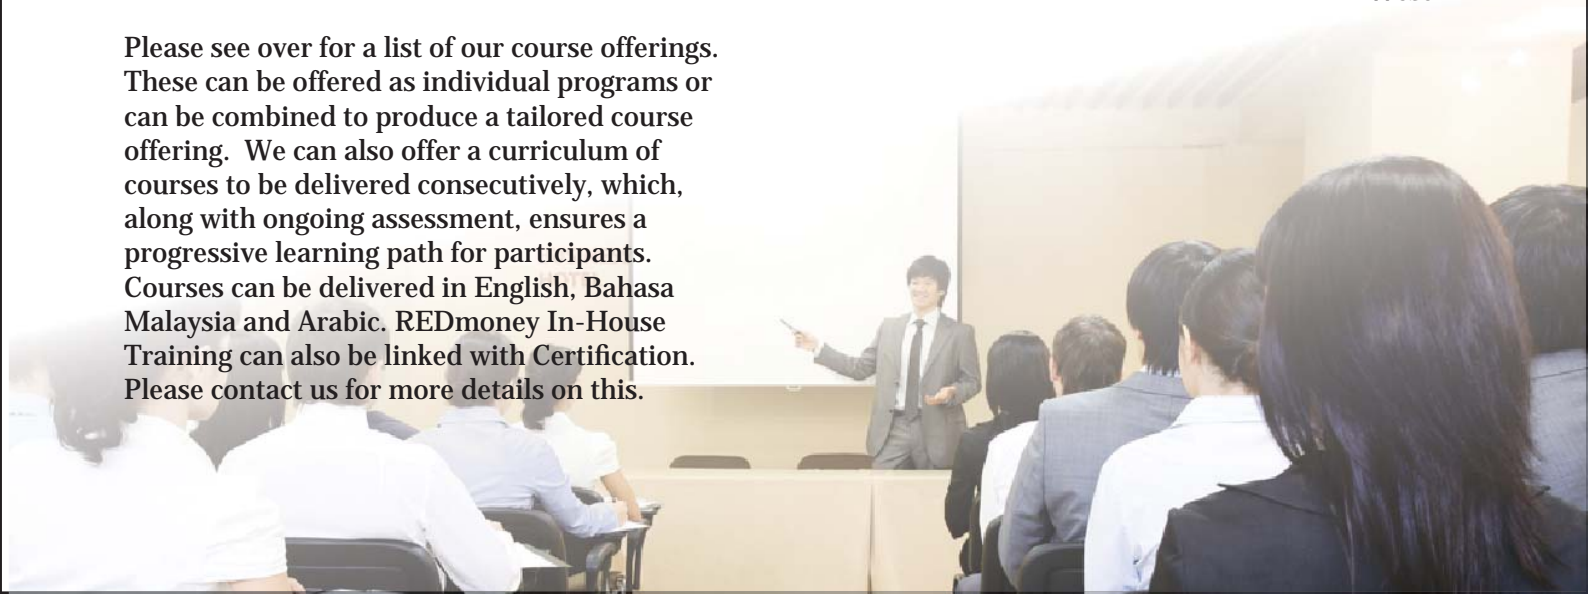

What We Deliver

Please see over for a list of our course offerings. These can be offered as individual programs or can be combined to produce a tailored course offering. We can also offer a curriculum of courses to be delivered consecutively, which, along with ongoing assessment, ensures a progressive learning path for participants. Courses can be delivered in English, Bahasa Malaysia and Arabic. REDmoney In-House Training can also be linked with Certification. Please contact us for more details on this.
